LIVE – INTRODUCTION

The rise of globalization had made its mark during the decade of 1990 – 2000. Skill India became a national mission to meet the increasing demand for skilled workers and professionals across industries. As a pioneer in higher education, Loyola College understood the importance of vocational education for students and created a separate department named Loyola Institute of Vocational Education (LIVE) in 1996 to focus on employable and vocational skills to enhance employment opportunities for the students.

Over the past 25 years, LIVE, Loyola has been offering several courses to students to prepare and equip them with vocational skills that could serve as easy stepping-stones into various professions and industries. These courses were designed to suit the requirements of the market’s ever-changing needs.

Students of LIVE, Loyola are equipped with skills, knowledge, and experience required to excel in many careers. The members of the faculty are industry-experts and subject specialists. They make the training even more dynamic and insightful. Till date, LIVE, Loyola has trained over 10,000 aspirants in different disciplines and most of our alumni work across the globe in prestigious organizations.

What makes LIVE unique?

- 01 A Loyola Institute with 28 years of experience in vocational and professional skills training.
- 02 Market-driven, job-oriented (highly employable) courses in various disciplines.
- 03 Curriculum designed in collaboration with industry.
- 04 Highly-experienced professionals as faculty members from various industries.
- 05 Smart classrooms and well-equipped infrastructure.
- 06 Intensive practicum & project-based teaching and learning.
- 07 Hands on experience with field/industrial visits.
- 08 Mandatory Internships.
- 09 Pioneer in offering courses in Media Education.
- 10 10,000 strong alumni in diverse professions and industry.

COURSES OFFERED

LIVE, Loyola provides postgraduate diploma courses in Management Studies and diploma courses in Media Studies tailored for both students and working professionals. These courses are highly regarded by industry stakeholders and adhere to a credit system and semester pattern. This ensures that students receive a comprehensive education while allowing flexibility for those balancing academic pursuits with professional commitments.

MURALI KUMAR S

23-PGDLSM-17

My academic journey in the PGDLSM program at Loyola College was an amazing experience. Having already been a Loyola student during my undergraduate studies, Loyola has consistently impressed me with its high standards of education. The faculty team is extremely professional and provides a wealth of knowledge and guidance. The coursework, including internships and projects, provided opportunities for me to develop my skills for professional engagement. The challenging assignments further enhanced my learning experience. I am incredibly grateful to the LIVE department for providing me with such a valuable opportunity to study here and for their utmost care and guidance in preparing me for a successful professional career.

PRACTICAL – II

Unique Practical Experience:

At LIVE, Loyola, students receive a unique and practical learning experience through various hands-on projects, assignments, internships, and workshops. Here are some examples of the practical experiences students engage in:

SILENT CONTINUITY - Students produce a silent scene, lasting 3 to 5 minutes, focusing solely on editing techniques. This exercise helps them grasp the basic grammar of film language through the use of cuts.

DIALOGUE PRACTICE - Students create a scene with a minimum of 3 characters and dialogue for 3 minutes, aimed at understanding the role of dialogue in film. This exercise allows them to hone their dialogue writing skills and explore its significance in storytelling.

CREATING A SCENE - Students develop a complete scene set in a single location, involving more than 3 characters and utilizing various camera movements. This project helps them understand scene structuring and the purpose behind different types of shots and camera movements.

AD FILM OR PSA - Students create a 30 to 60-second advertisement or public service announcement, focusing on concise and effective communication of ideas. This project enables them to develop concepts for short-form content and execute them efficiently.

MISE-EN-SCENE - Students choreograph an incident in a single long take lasting 3 minutes, emphasizing camera movements and actor interactions. This exercise helps them understand the intricacies of staging and blocking within a scene.

PROJECT FILM - As a culmination of their learning, students produce a short fiction film. This final project serves as their entry into the film industry, allowing them to showcase their skills and creativity developed throughout the year.

Through these practical experiences, students at LIVE, Loyola gain valuable hands-on skills and insights into various aspects of filmmaking, preparing them for success in the industry.

SUDHARSHNAVALLI

Loyola LIVE's one-year filmmaking course was an eye-opening journey into the realm of world cinema. Regular seminars and practical sessions facilitated significant growth for me. Many of the instructors had prior experience in the field, which further enriched the learning experience. It provided hands-on experience in writing, directing and acting techniques. It has really helped me improve the way I write, create and perceive movies. This one-year diploma course has transformed and prepared me for a better future.

Unique Practical Experience:

LIVE, Loyola offers multiple opportunities to gain hands on live experience through projects, assignments, internship and workshop.

DOCUMENTARY PHOTOGRAPHY - Students are asked to do a project through photographs choosing a specific 'subject'. Finally, students are asked to submit a Portfolio of their Work.

ACTUALITY EXERCISE - Students are asked to do a one-minute compilation video about any subject of their choice. Students must do this project with minimal camera movements and little editing.

SILENT CONTINUITY - Students create a simple scene without dialogues (with or without story element) for 3-to-5-minute edits. Students apply only cuts in the editing and learn the basic grammar of the film language.

CREATING A SCENE - Students make a complete scene in one location with more than 3 characters using different camera movements in the shots of 3-5 minutes duration. It helps students learn to structure a scene and make them aware of the purposes of different types of shots and camera movement.

AD FILM OR PSA – Students make an ad film or public service announcement for 30 to 60 seconds. It will help students to learn to create a concept for sharp and short presentation and execution.

MISE-EN-SCENE – Students create a scene in one single long take for three minutes. It helps students learn the choreography of camera movements and actors.

PROJECT FILM – Students produce a short fiction film as a final expression of what they have learnt in the whole year and use it for their entry into the film industry.

I joined the Editing diploma course in LIVE, to learn the workflow of post-production in film making and to enhance skill of storytelling. The Editing course at LIVE Loyola equipped me to handle the technical challenges of editing by improving my fluency in the major editing software through hands-on practical classes. Also, it has made me a bit more mature in storytelling by collaborating with the students from different disciplines of film making. We also get to meet a lot of professionals through interactions and workshops which gives us an idea of what it takes to work in the industry.
