Dear Students,

The Loyola Women’s Hostel (LWH), situated in the south-eastern corner of the sprawling and scenic Loyola campus, is a ‘home away from home’ for women students. Though any hostel cannot ordinarily claim to offer all that the parents and siblings can, the purpose of the Loyola Women’s Hostel is to provide you the space and facilities to study well. A safe haven, away from the hustle and bustle of city life, it remains an oasis for rest and relaxation amidst academic stress.

The LWH, a confluence of students from four different institutions in the campus, is also a place where students learn for life. For many students, it is a nurturing ground for many of their creative activities and the learning that happens outside the classrooms. With the need to understand and adjust with others, resident students have to learn to live in harmony and cordial relationship with respect and consideration for the other.

The hostel life of students is positively a very important part of life during which students, though away from home, experience a new independence, make new friends, and expand their horizon of activities and learn to take their own decisions. Hostel life, with all its limitations and rules, leaves such an imprint that students generally become nostalgic about the time they have spent in hostels.

I welcome you to remain happy and healthy and contribute to the friendly atmosphere on the campus. Make use of the facilities available at LWH to fulfil your own aspirations and the fond dreams of your parents. May all your days here in “the home away from home” be filled with joy and peace!
